Author's Notes:
Day seventeen of the thirty-day drabble challenge!

Why haven't I ever looked into his eyes like this? The answer I was searching for was always there. There was nothing to be afraid of, after all.

His eyes are green-brown-hazel. His eyes are beautiful.

His eyes are full of love. His eyes are looking into mine.

His eyes are full of love. His eyes are looking into mine.

His eyes are the bluest sky I've ever seen, like lying on my back on a summer day and getting dizzy with the sun and feeling myself fall up. I want to fall into him forever.

I'm his. He's mine.
